Online Dating: Love in the Digital Age The New York Times

When it comes to romance — and the ways that people meet and interact — technology has changed the rules over the last two decades. With the rise of dating websites and, more recently, mobile apps, love and connection (or whatever arrangement one is seeking) can be just a click or swipe away. Today there is a site or app for just about every taste and age group, from traditional to niche. And it's a trend that's growing. Today, one in 10 American adults is registered with an online dating service, according to a New York Times article “The Science of Online Dating” by Rachel Nuwer (Feb. 16, 2015). This Tbook, a selection of articles from The Times, features a variety of essays and news stories focusing on the highs and lows of finding love in the digital age.
